Count as readers only those who are 18 or over.

Widely used, factual data show that an advertiser can buy a newspaper campaign of 1000-line ads at cost of $2.40 for each 1000 adults who read that page in the newspaper.

COURT NEWS

There was considerable reaction following the day's coverage of a trial currently in progress at Lindsay. The trial involved a newspaper which invited questions and answers of a very personal, even intimate nature and it apparently came as a surprise to a number of readers that "The Post" did this.

As a matter of fact, it would prefer not to... It would prefer that no newspaper would do so and that no radio or television station would broadcast in hushed detail, affairs relating to the lives of people in difficulty with the law. This paper has never been convinced that it is in the public interest to make public details of such a性质的新闻.

It is true that there is a large number of people in this and every other community who read this sort of thing avidly... There is always a temporary rise in readership when cases before court proceed to yield details of the private lives of the people involved. Quite frankly, this paper has sold far more than its ordinary sales on different occasions but it never felt that it was right to exploit the misadventures of persons who ran afoul of the law.

Quite frankly, this paper has sold far more than its ordinary sales on different occasions but it never felt that it was right to exploit the misadventures of persons who ran afoul of the law.

The booklets forward we read: "In 1955, the National Employment Service of the Unemployment Insurance Commission conducted a survey of the educational standing of unemployed persons registered with its 200 local offices across the country. The results of the survey indicated that the highest unemployment and educational level factors are significant to young people that the National Employment Committee, (a body advisor to the Unemployment Insurance Commission on employment matters) urged the Commission to publish this booklet."

It is particularly interesting that the 45 per cent of persons seeking work in National Employment Service offices had Grade 8 education or less. The balance or 36.5 per cent had Grade 9.

In addition to this, the National Employment Service reports to the survey indicated these things:

(1) It is extremely difficult to place students with less than Grade 10 education.

(2) More youngsters with a high school education are needed.

(3) People leaving school after grades 7, 8 or 9 are not likely to get anything but unskilled jobs at low pay.

(4) Secondary school graduates are quickly placed in jobs.

(5) Many boys and girls looking for jobs as industrial workers or as office workers are not sufficiently qualified.

It is also interesting a bit of other information in the booklet which will likely be of interest to parents and students in our own community. It would probably be advantageous to examine the survey's finding with care, having regard to related factors.

The concluding chapter of the booklet is in the out the advantages of newspaper advertising over television. We don't believe any further comment is necessary... The findings of the researchers speak very plainly:

TELEVISION

TV cannot guarantee a specific number in audience. Audience varies day to day, station to station.

Each advertiser gets different-sized audience depending on timing, competing shows, etc.

TV program falls within three time segments, each delivering a different number of viewers.

Summer hiatus in TV, re-run, old movies.

Audience composition varies, depending on program appeal and tastes.

Program loyalty the exception rather than the rule. Quiz shows, panels and other TV fads come and go.

Commercials often repeated, and in many homes the signal to run to the kitchen or put junior to bed.

Audience seesaws back and forth, precluding uniform efforts by markets.

Advertiser has no tangible evidence that commercial was aired everywhere as ordered.

Long experience and use has given advertiser faith in the pulling power of the daily newspaper, but TV advertiser goes alone.

Advertiser gives audience figure that seems impressive, but which is just one week's audience added to another. This is called CUMULATIVE AUDIENCE MEASUREMENT.

Advertiser often forced to use stations he does not want and spot TV hands him a multitude of availability headaches.

Advertiser in many cases must share his precious time with station-break announcements, network program promotions, spot commercials, co-sponsors, free-riding plugs.

Cannot do every type of job. The viewer cannot shop, and must buy commercials as he does newspaper ads.

Network time commitments and other contracts void any chance for advertiser getting out from under a poor program; TV lacks the flexibility of a newspaper paper.

Wholesalers and retailers cannot be watching TV while working.

Not so with television.

Figures include children of all ages.

Network TV half-hour evening program costs $6.48 to reach 1000 adults.

good taste and the best interests of all concerned. This should tend to make all but the most irresponsible journalists think twice before rushing into print and it would clearly indicate to the reading public the responsibility of the writer.

ARE YOU THINKING OF LEAVING SCHOOL?

The above is the provocative title of a booklet just released by the Unemployment Insurance Commission of Canada and currently being distributed among students of Lindsay's schools. Even those of us who left school many years ago could hardly have imagined the kind of information contained in this booklet. We hope those who have yet to take the step from school to the work-a-day world will read not only the highlights, but give its total contents some thought.

In the booklet's forward we read: "In 1955, the National Employment Service of the Unemployment Insurance Commission conducted a survey of the educational standing of unemployed persons registered with its 200 local offices across the country. The results of the survey indicated that the most effective means of combatting unemployment is to train people for useful work."

Recognizing the importance of this, the 45 per cent of persons seeking work in National Employment Service offices had Grade 8 education or less. The balance or 36.5 per cent had Grade 9.

In addition to this, the National Employment Service reports to the survey indicated these things:

(1) It is extremely difficult to place students with less than Grade 10 education.

WINDSOR TRAINING PLAN

A high school driver training plan, proposed by the Windsor Traffic Safety Council, has been approved by the Windsor Board of Education in principle.

The plan is aimed at 15 and 16-year-olds and will provide driver training on an extra-curricular basis in secondary school.

Classroom training will precede on-the-road instruction and will emphasize safe driving habits and attitudes.

The Windsor Traffic Safety Council is making every effort to obtain funds for the one driver training class in each secondary school by the Fall school term—Ontario Traffic Safety.

IT IS PROFITS, AFTER ALL, THAT MAKE JOBS

Referring to the suggestion by officials of the United Steel Workers that wage increases can be met by drawing on profits, an American steel executive points out that the profits that the corporations record do not represent the total picture. "The corporation," he says, "represents only a portion of the total picture," he said, "money that has already been spent—money partly paid out in dividends; partly to buy new tools of production, partly utilized to provide working inventories, or to finance sales, or to supply labor costs."

Trade union officials at the higher level realize well that adequate profits are necessary for maintained production, and that it is production which holds up employment — and which, incidentally, keeps the unions off the streets as the chief economic measure in their job.

But, in this case, however, the approach is to ignore this economic truism; this, on the apparent thesis that management will find some means of maintaining production in the face of crumbling profits.

For the union officials have been proven largely right in pursuing such a policy, but there is always a saturation point. It behoves them to be careful that today this point is not being reached in a number of industries.

form of appeal is... It urges parents, guardians and other churchmen with young people to "help encourage our Canadian youth to plan their future in the light of their own talents, interest, and abilities." Help them realize what their choices now may lead to later. That's a reasonable request, isn't it?

IF WHAT HE SAYS IS CORRECT...

If what the general manager of the Canadian National Sportsmen Show has to say about the economic plight of the country is correct, it is certainly time for some self-examination on the part of those who are responsible for the nation's present plight.

Addressing the Kawartha Lake Tourist Association's general meeting in Peterborough, Mr. Loyd Kelly said, quote:

"My real reason for being here is that I have the simplest and unalterable belief that in Tourism or the Vinyl industry as far as we like to call it, we have the only possible way out of a nasty national economic situation."

"Because of high labour costs, high profit and our own individualistic standard of living, we have to export our goods to foreign countries and lose the all-important export of goods by which we can maintain a balance of trade to make us economically sound. Our export of goods is steadily falling off and our agricultural surplus of wheat, milk, butter eggs and other standard products grow steadily larger."

"This grave national situation must be corrected if we are not to face a long and serious slump in our economic field and I am convinced that in the tourist business we have one of the most effective means of combating this situation. To me it is a crusade. I am not a crusader, but I am a crusader."

He then went on to say that the Canadian government should send off by those kind-hearted and public-spirited men and women of Lindsay with many years of world travel with many years in India.

I am now 70 years of age and was not even born when World War II ended. I was 10 years old when I left Lindsay with the 45th Victoria Regt. on that ill-fated forgotten spring morning in 1940. We were sent to Barracks and if possible, most any surviving combatant would have been sent to the 45th Victoria Regt. and those most hospitalized people of all ages were sent to the 30th Bn. Royal Canadian Dragoons.

I am coming to Canada for a holiday towards the end of May next, and I would like to see the 45th Victoria Regt. again. I would like to spend two or three days in Lindsay and should there be any other gathering of ex-members of the 45th Victoria Regt. I would like to spend a day with them.

I should like to spend a day with the 30th Bn. Royal Canadian Dragoons. I would like to put up there for old timer sake, but if not and there are other groups here, I would like to spend some other guest house.

I have three large photo prints of myself taken before we left on route for France. I would like to have these printed and framed and given to the 45th Victoria Regt. in Lindsay. My address will be:

G-5 18th St., New Haven, Conn.
Your sincerely,

I should much appreciate a copy of your paper sent to my New York City address.

Significance of symbolism of altar appointments and Church linens explained by WA guest speaker

More than 100 guests, visitors and members in connection with delegates from all parts of Victoria Diocese gathered at a rally sponsored by the Younger Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Anglican Church.

Rev. Canon H. H. Hooker who opened the meeting with a hymn and prayer, explained the symbolism of the baptism of newborn children, as performed by the Bishop.

Rev. Sister Mary Oliver of the Order of St. John the Divine, as president of the Younger Women's Auxiliary, gave a talk on the significance of symbols in the liturgy.

Mrs. G. Mackay from Canada was named corresponding secretary, according to the Younger Women's Auxiliary, and for the A.Y.P.A. Mrs. E. M. G. Mackay was nominated.

Miss June Bowes will leave Lindsay May 4th at 7:45 a.m.

Miss June Bowes, Younger Women's Auxiliary, gave a running commentary on her work.

Her Grace, Bishop of Ontario, was present.

Other guests included Canon H. H. Hooker, Vicar of St. Paul's, and Canon J. R. G. Jackson, Vicar of St. John's.

Coming back to Lindsay after 44 years

I should like to mention that when I was in Lindsay I was with other comrades billeted at the Maunsell's Hotel; their staff being so very good and kind.

I should like to spend a few days in Lindsay, to see the changes, to meet old friends, to see the old buildings, to see the old houses, to see the old streets, to see the old landmarks.

Potato Cakes

To make these potato cakes pattern, boil 1 large potato, then peel and season with salt, pepper and paprika. Add one teaspoon of dried chives and 1/2 cup of softened butter. Mix well. Shape into small balls and roll. Dot in egg wash and bake in a 350° oven for 15 minutes. Serve hot.

Saving Time

For quick sandwich batters, when making sandwiches of ground
meat mix it with creamed soups and spread on bread.

Flanels

Flanels that have been hand-washed can be brought to their original softness by soaking them in warm water.

These Terrible Squirrels

We've been having a number of terrible squirrels in our house and sometimes we feel like shooting them. There was one that went up the chimney and down again but they still kept on going.

The other day one of them got stuck in the window frame.
We decided it must go. It hopped away and we hope it doesn't come back again.

Removing Paint

For removing rust paint, pat a few drops of ammonia on the area. Let the ammonia soak in the paint and it will start to crack. Another method is to put a piece of white bread in the paint. Let it stand for a few hours. Then you can remove the paint easily.

Fluffy Basket

If you do not have a fluffy bowl or a wicker basket, then make a simple one from paper or sandwich wrap, try making covers for them. These can be attractively made out of remnants of crepe paper.

Broccoli

Broccoli can be fried in a skillet with a little butter.

You can remove the leaves from the stalks and then dip the leaves in the oil before putting in the croquette, so that they will not stick to the baked while you are trying to remove them.

Brown Beans

If you can't remove the beans from the pod, then soak the beans in water overnight.

The next morning when you are going to cook the beans just add a few drops of oil to
the water.

How to Make a Stronger Broom

If you want to make a stronger broom, then soak
them in water over night.

The next morning when you are going to clean the house
just add a few drops of oil to
the water.

How to Make a Smaller House

For your lot which is too large, this is the most economical way to save space on the lot.

The house has a split entry and the living room area so as to save space on the lot.

The house itself is an unusual shape, the kitchen features

L-shaped cupboard arrangements with plenty of room to move around in. Two bedrooms and bath are arranged in a compact arrangement.

The sense of luxury is the sun deck accessible from the dining room area through sliding glass doors for outside dining, sunbathing, just relaxing.

With a large built-in carpet under-your lot should slope a little.

Designed for N.H.A. approval, working drawings are available at the Building Centre (B.C.) Ltd., 116 E.

S. R. Pitts new board member, successor to H. H. MacFadden

Mrs. Ned Gregory, Chairman of the Ross Memorial Hospital Board in his opinion regards the annual general meeting held at Lindsay last Saturday as being a pleasure to see so many interested in the hospital, as was expressed by Dr. H. H. MacFadden, who was not present. He noted the absence of Mayor L. Burrows who had received a vote of confidence from the Board and declared it was very important to support the hospital.

Mr. G. E. Pitts, who stated that the association had hoped to increase in

NOTICED . . . along the way

A bright racing meeting is due to be held in Lindsay next June 11th. Details of the event are being worked out by the Lindsay and District Harness Club and the Lindsay District Harness Club which held its organizational meeting at the Lindsay Civic Centre office Friday night, April 24th. Interested men attended the meeting.

Mr. Norman F. Müller has been given a farewell send-off by staffers of the Ross Memorial Hospital. He has been associated with the hospital as administrator since the outset of the campaign to expand the hospital. Mr. Müller has acquired his company's services.

G. & B. Food Market reported lively interest among the ladies in its Japket Contest. There were two winners, Mrs. Mabel Ward on Monday and three pairs of minkies given away to the first called . . . one pair each.

If one phoned a lucky number, she sales slip—one corresponding to the number—was given away in the conversation—they receive the jackpot prize which next week amounts to $100.00. The contest continues until May 11th.

There is considerable concern in the mind of one Bruce West about the "burning of the second not" but he really hasn't a thing to worry about compared with the boy Friend Frost and other officials who are on the scene at the site of the new Girl Scout Training School, west of Lindsay. Here these promising young girls will learn the skills of the job assigned for the school, and will be taught to live in accordance with the motto "God, Country and Home."

The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. John C. Palmer, President of the Girl Scout Council, and their parents were much appreciated.

The service was followed by a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Carol Cappo, Marilyn Daniel, Paity Kier, Joyce Gosselin and Matilda Gosselin, all members of the council.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Jerry Terry, under the supervision of Miss Sherman Moore, Vice Chairwoman, led the group in a hike.

The girls hiked over to Mayne Warrens and Warden Murphy to do the set-up for the camp. They proceeded to dig up the site and then to move dirt to it one site. Unfortunately, the soil was very light and a good deal of work was required to move the dirt.

The load-bearing could be lifted clear. Looking back on the trail, the girls were able to see that the sod had been removed in advance because it lent a distinction to the trail.

It was undoubtedly the first sodless campsite ever to be built in Ontario. If history and it might well be a historic milestone in the annals of Girl Scout history, the girls will be remembered.

It is the hope of the girls that the campsite will be a great success.

The Fingerboard correspondent is happy to be alive during this period of time when we are all set forth in the following scenes for your enjoyment:

"The grass is getting greener around the world," and the birds are on the land. Others are cleaning grain, and the housewives have their hands full with the coming of winter.

A DIRE PREDICTION

The All Canada Insurance Federation has a dire prediction to make for Canadians planning to take to the highways over the Victoria Day weekend. The experts say there will be more than 100,000 holiday drivers less than the previous year. The federation says that "nearly 100 Canadians will be killed and several thousand injured over the Victoria Day weekend unless more than the usual precautions are taken." Experience of past years indicates that most holiday deaths and injuries result from automobile accidents.

These 12 safety hints may be the difference between a "safe" and a "worry" weekend for you if you heed them:

1. Make sure your car is in good mechanical condition before starting out on long trips.
2. Check driving permits and identification cards are in an accessible place.
3. Don't overload the car with people or baggage.
4. Split long journeys into easy stages to avoid fatigue.
5. Stop frequently for coffee, something to eat, or a few minutes' rest.
6. If you are tired, but can't stop overnight, pull over to the side of the road and have a nap until rested.
7. Study in advance the different driving rules of the cities, provinces or states in which you will be travelling.
8. Travel slowly through unfamiliar territory.
9. If you are blind or other means of failure, continue slowly until you can pull off the road.
10. Set out flares when you make repairs at night; don't block other drivers' view of your car lights.
11. Keep speed always within safe limits, especially at night or on wet highways.
12. Make the return trip only when you are well rested.

But is enforcement needed?

The Sunday, May 12th, 59, which says that at 10:30 civic buildings will be closed. I think that enforcement is needed.

I do agree with your editorial of the 6th instant. If a civic building is expected to do civic functions after 10:30, it would be reasonable to adjourn either the civic affairs or his own business with the public. Then, if it is even so, it is only democratic that everybody be obliged to obey what was made by another council.

Yours sincerely,

Observer.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

Back on the farm again. My wife was away for a bit, trouble with my car, and now we're back again. After what these two weeks have been, I'm glad to be home again. The cows still did not give up milk, but the weather is getting warmer. I don't want that to happen again. But the library regulations say we can't have any longer than 10 days. I'll just have to keep my head down and hope the weather stays like it is.

It's been a hard week. I've got a cold, and I'm not feeling too good. I'll just have to keep my head down and hope the weather stays like it is.

WEST—In loving memory of our dear brother, Lester Irwin West, who was suddenly taken down May 13, 1956.

Rest in peace, dear brother, we will miss you.

—Lovingly remembered by Sisters and Brothers.

WEST—Loving memory of our dear son, Lester Irwin West, who was so suddenly taken from us on May 13, 1956.

Three years have passed and gone, since one we loved so well, was taken from us here on earth.

With Jesus Christ at his side, the love he placed upon his grave, may wither and decay.

But our love for him who sleeps below, shall never fade away.

—Lovingly remembered by Mother, and Dad.

DEVER—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Wesley Dever, who passed away May 20, 1955.

There is no parting from those we love.

No distance can divide, for today in memory's garden we walk hand in hand to be safe.

—Always remembered by daughter Dorothy, son-in-law, Don and family.

PCs organize for campaign, convention on Thursday

On his own

Plans for tomorrow's Progressive Conservative Convention at the Academy Theatre in Lindsay will be held, according to C. W. Hodgeson, legislative representative for this region.

Premier Leslie Frost, Mr. Hodgeson, will be main speaker on May 11, Thursday afternoon.

It is expected that Premier Frost will be chosen as candidate to contest the riding for Lindsay in the forthcoming Provincial election June 11th.

As soon as the Convention opened that day, the buildings formerly occupied by Ross Newton Ltd., several party members moved in to start campaign operations.

The PCs are headed by Mr. W. Parkin and Mrs. M. Dickey, Omemee, are in charge of the organization.

Lawyer J. A. McQuarrie is now on his way to Lindsay to help with the legal work. He announced this week that he was leaving the firm of Frost, Richardson and Associates to open his own office on Lineay St. east, North. He is optimistic about the Dept. of Transport's action but has taken over the quarters now occupied by Ontario Provincial Police when they move into their new building under construction on the Oakwood road. Mr. McQuarrie said the change was planned to coincide with the time when wiped out the frost company's offices precipitated it. Reasons for the change are due on Mr. McQuarrie's part to speculate in detail.

Campaign Committee Dissolving

Councillor E. J. Moore has announced that his health camp campaign committee would soon disband.

At the recent annual meeting of the Board of Governors of the R.H.E.C. came the news that the committee had been disbanded.

Committee members, Donations and Expenses.

At this week's meeting of Town Council it was announced by Counsellor Lamb, that the room formerly occupied by the campaign committee was now vacant.

It is anticipated that after next Saturday's meeting of Council, the office, the Assessment Department will be re-housed there.

Taxi License granted

A recommendation by Police Chief John Hunter, that a taxi licence be issued to G. L. MacLeod, who has adopted the pseudonym of "Tenn" at Council at this week's committee meeting, was carried.

Chairman E. MacClester said he had been advised there was no reason why Mr. MacLeod should not receive a taxi licence.

Councillors Hutton and Lamb moved and seconded the motion.

Loses control on curve

Damage estimated at $100 resulted when a car being operated by Mr. and Mrs. G. L. MacLeod, went out of control on a curve on Highway 9A, six miles south of Highway 40 late Tuesday evening.

Mr. Beckwith said he had no information on the accident.

The accident was investigated by OPP Constable Harvey Cook.

Old diary recalls life of man who built first Lindsay locks

Emigrated as boy, became builder of locks, later

The life and works of a man who contributed much to the development of Lindsay and the Trent Canal System is told in a 50-year-old diary in the possession of Mr. Harry Campbell, 81, son of his father, the late Mr. David Campbell, and it contains among other things, an account of the man who built the first locks at Lindsay.

Walter, the obituary recalls, was born in Devonshire, England and came to Canada in 1844 when he was 16 years old. There he learned boat-building and carpentry. Coming to the head of the Trent River he was the designer and builder of the steamers "Champlain" and "The Blue Butte" and "Nipissing" for service on the Muskoka lakes.

In 1859 Mr. Walter built his first locks at Lindsay and to the memory of that day lime kilns were erected near the locks and he made superintendence of public works in the district; a position which he held until his death.

Not long and capable and energetic, he was a man of varied talents and all those potentialities he brought such ability, integrity and cordiality as to win the confidence and respect, confidence and regard of his colleagues and the public.

After his retirement from business, he contested South Victoria Riding for the Commons on three occasions, but was defeated by Mr. Chas. Partington.

Mr. Walter, in addition to his work as a carpenter, was a member of the church, he was also a member of Lindsay Citizens' Band for many years.

Two married, he first wed Miss Anna Dunlop in 1860 and a year later he wed again, this time with one son, Robert. Four years later his wife died. Walter then married Miss Anna Walsh and six years later she died.

When he died, the obituary records:

"Say hello to your rabbit for us!"

Gardens have good manure and no one knows this any better now than Miss Neddy Forman of Crows Nest.

Miss Forman visited Lindsay over the weekend, she stay included attendance at Queen Street Church services and the annual meeting of the Board of Governors of the R.H.E.C., came the news that the committee had been disbanded.

At this week's meeting of Council it was announced that the room formerly occupied by the campaign committee was now vacant.

Food Follies

Instead of using the customary spoon and strainer, try using a rotisserie after.

MORE...

A banana dessert can be prepared quickly and easily by passing it through a ricer. Mix with sweetened whipped cream which has been beaten until stiff. Add a few drops of rum and garnish with bacon bits.

Whipping Cream

Add a dash of rum or brandy to your cream to cut down on the time required to hasten the whipping. Be sure to have the cream and utensil very cold.

Keep It Fresh

To keep your baked bread fresh for as long as possible wrap it in a damp cloth and wrap the cloth in a bread or large crock. Reheating kept for several days will not affect the taste.

Markets

When you buy a ham, insist on a bone-in ham. This will keep longer and is easier to remove when you want to eat it.

Cinnamon Tea

An old favorite, cinnamon tea, is given a new twist by adding a dash of rum. Wrap the first few sticks well to remove it.

Mashed Potatoes

When you boil potatoes to be mashed, it should always be heated.

This is even more important during the summer months.

Spiced Bricks

Stains of smoke on the bricks in your fireplace can be removed by the following method:

Mix two ounces of soda, one ounce of salt, one-half cup of flour and sufficient water to make a cream.

Rub the brick with a soft sponge dipped twice with the mixture for a few minutes, then brush off with a stiff brush.

Ornamental Rugs

To clean the small ornamental rug, lay it flat on a piece of paper, white soap. Rub off as much soap as you can and then rinse with warm water.

Allow to dry completely for a few minutes, then brush off with a stiff brush.

Last Word

You can make dinner更加香浓 by inverting the ends of the veins of carrots together, cut the stalk about two inches shorter than the rest of the vegetable, then, by shaking the two together and then shaking the dirt into the paper bag.

Tulips

If you happen to stay to a while and they make nice bouquets for sick people, they will love them when they are pretty.

time wholesale loads of machinery were sent to the United States.

Mr. Hodgson said he was glad to see the plant was now back in Canadian hands.

Continuing, Mr. Hodgson said:

"I am sure the party's candidate for this riding, the speaker said the province had the right man in the office."

sive spirit in the community in this area.

He liked this to the progressive party being enjoyed throughout the country.

so much for the people of this area.

Sparks Of Wisdom

Oratory

In oratory, affection must be avoided; it being better for a man by a native and clear eloquence, to express himself, than by those words which may smell either of the lamp or inkhorn.

—Lord Herbert.

An hour's industry will do more to produce cheerfulness, suppress evil humours, and retrieve your affairs, than a month's moaning.

Editorial

GET TOUGH POLICY

It was encouraging to the safety-minded to note that Magistrate R. Galloway of Sudbury sentenced the horse thief to appearing before him for a period of one year. This may not make it entirely impossible for the one convicted of carelessness to drive but it will make it extremely risky business.

There has been a lot of talk about the high fatality and injury rate on our roads and the appropriate steps to be taken to reduce the number of deaths. However, it must be recognized that there are times when appeals fall on deaf ears. The best way devised to sharp these ears is to deal severely with their owners when they get into an accident. If there is an indication of carelessness or negligence, then the introduction of more stringent penalties for the misuse of a motor vehicle plus the adoption of some additional safety features by car manufacturers (there is plenty to scope for these without jeopardizing a car's saleability), could take much of the hazard out of motoring.

WOULD TAKE A LOOK

Ottawa — The Executive Council of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce recently urged the government to appoint a representative Commission of Enquiry to examine the operations of the Unemployment Insurance Act as to sources of drain, coverage and financial burden. The Commission of Enquiry recommendations are being considered. The Commission, it was stated, should report back by December 1.

The Chamber's recommendation was contained in a brief to the House of Commons Standing Committee on Industrial Relations presently considering Bill No. C-4.

Among other things, Bill No. C-4, an Act to Amend the Unemployment Insurance Act would provide for an increase in Unemployment Insurance contribution rates, the raising of the ceiling, the addition of two new classes of earnings, a change in the provision of alternative earnings, and the extension in the duration of benefits.

The Chamber's submission signed by Morgan Reid, Chairman of the Executive Council and General Manager D. L. Morell held that the time had come to make a thorough investigation of the Act before the normal review period of unemployment insurance again. "We would suggest," it was stated, "that the Commission of Enquiry be a representative body with the skills and judgment necessary to make a thorough review of the sound principles on which the Act should be operated and to present recommendations in relation to these principles. The Commission should be required to make recommendations after this review."

The Chamber held that before there were any changes in the existing structure, the whole basis of unemployment insurance should be examined, and that in addition to reviewing areas of drain and alternative earnings, the cost of the required extended coverage now in the Act, with a view to seeing if the excluded groups cannot now be properly covered," said the brief.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The Human Mind and Body

FATALISTS' PHILOSOPHY CHANCES WHEN THEY SUFFER UP TACK

By Peter J. Stenmark, M.D., F.A.C.P.

Are you a fatalist? Do you truly believe that there is nothing you can do to improve your life expectancy?

I have met many people who truly believe something like this. "I believe there's nothing anybody can do to prevent disease." I have seen many people who have been set up in a little black book and somewhere up there I think people are just too afraid to go to the doctor or health care to do anything about it. No matter what they do to put off the inevitable, it still comes along in time, no sooner, no later.

I recall one professed fatalist who was a member of my family. He was a man who was very afraid to see a doctor because when I got it, it's in the books I'm not scared. He was in perfect health until he was 80 years old. He had never had a real sick day in his life. When I saw that same man at 80, he had already changed his tune.

The yellow fine writing. The once healthy man who was so frightened by his physician friends whom he had induced to move in with him.

This man had a coronary thrombo-embolus. He was a severe attack and he had still exhausted on the fourth day of his illness. He died in bed because his voice was weak.

I recall him saying in a moment of despair, "I'm a fatalist." I said, "You can't help it when you're lying in bed all day and sick. I remember you telling me you were going to be a fatalist. Well, that's part of it. I just am as scared as anyone else. You don't want to get me well. I'll operate on you if you're a good patient. Because I want to do my best to make good sense anymore that the man who won't take medical treatment will live as long as he wants to. I want to do my best to care of him."

I treated that man for 10 years. Although he had to go back to his bed, and became well, he came in twice a year for a physical check-up. He was a good patient. I used the word "fatalist" in describing his own philosophy.

He was a fatalist. That fatality did not stop him from getting into shape younger. (Of course, you will see exceptions who live to 80 years old and die in their beds.) I mean to see a doctor. People who believe that it is sensible to advise you to see a doctor. Medical science has to offer the assistance invariably outlined their fatalistic beliefs.

Tuberculosis, cancer, heart disease, diabetes and the rest feed on fatalities because these people are not willing to seek medical advice. They give disease a head start.

If there is a fatalist in your household, you should let him know who keeps saying: "What's the use of going to see a doctor?"

One of the first things to do is to always hope that they will read this column today. Perhaps we can help them to realize that they are not alone before illness comes along, gives them a painful bump—and does it.

FIBROSITIS HELPED BY STEROIDS

BY STERIOID

We have many patients suffering from fibrositis used to return to the office completely delighted, looking seems to help.

These were steroid, prednisone and many other medications, and it was the same old story: "The doctor gave me this."

Now that we have the corticosteroids so many of these patients are doing well. These medications can be taken in small doses for many months.

Don't have to accept traffic deaths, injuries inevitable oil company president declares

Despite the fact that the auto-motive industry of North America is multiplying faster than ever, there is no reason to have to accept as inevitable the traffic deaths and injuries we are presently experiencing.

This was the opinion expressed last night by W. M. V. Ash, a former chairman of the Ontario Highway Safety Conference and president of Shell Oil Company of Canada, in an address to the Alberta Oil and Gas Conference in Calgary.

Using Alberta as an example, Mr. Ash said that the human population of Alberta has increased by 100,000 per cent from 1923 to 1957. Over the same period registration of vehicles has increased by more than 200 per cent.

Mr. Ash was convinced that it was possible to reduce the number of traffic deaths and injuries caused through traffic accidents even though the car population continues to grow.

"Others have done it and we can do it in Canada," he said. "In the United States, where there are twice as many traffic accidents, 20 cars a month are killed in traffic accidents nevertheless, through education and other methods, traffic safety. The all-time high of highway deaths in 1941, has been exceeded since 1945. In 1957, the number of drivers who died in traffic accidents was down 15 per cent from the year before."

According to Mr. Ash, this has been achieved through leadership from President Eisenhower downwards. He felt that it could however, be done in Canada if the federal or provincial government or the provinces, through cooperation in research and such matters as traffic police, could do their part.

After leadership at the provincial level, Mr. Ash believed that leadership at the local level was also very important. Using his own firm as an example, he explained how a carefully conducted campaign can result in a steady winning safety record.

In closing, he emphasized that there was no formula for achieving success in the safety movement. He felt that the results were obtained slowly and that it would continue to be made if each individual places his efforts in the promotion of the cause and in the attack upon it.

"To start to lose relatives and friends in traffic accidents, to pay millions of dollars, unless we do what simple things. This is the most important thing in the situation. It is a matter of using our heads," he said.

He said that we need our heads because this type of damage cannot be stopped by a surge of feeling, or by a desire to do only the right thing and orderly planning by steady inexorable plucking away and by acceptance of all the conditions of a long-distance race.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE . . . BLESSING AND A BANE

The best every indication that unemployment insurance benefits are going to be increased in Canada . . . Those drawing the benefits will get more money and other extensions of the service. Those who will benefit the most will welcome the changes and others who will leave at their expense, seeing in them unhealthy potential.

Like some other forms of social security, unemployment insurance can be both a blessing and a curse. It is a blessing when it is used in dire circumstances through no fault of his own, it serves a temporary useful purpose. On the other hand, there is always the danger that the prospect of such benefits may contribute a degree to dependence and negativism.

In former days, when no such benefits existed, men were required to be more inventive when it came to finding ways and means of earning a livelihood. Some men who had never thought they possessed qualities of leadership or management in the sales field, discovered they could handle this type of work well and profitably. Others who never dreamed of going into business for themselves, found success in this field. And still other people, like those in the trades, learned new skills and discovered a new outlet for other pursuits. In other words, they became creative and made their own place under the sun. If unemployment insurance discourages initiative and self-reliance, it is defeating the purpose for which it was originally designed.

Temporary assistance can be helpful, beyond that it can be crippling, morally and economically.

LIGHTNING AND THUNDER

The lightning and thunder (in that order) season is back with us again. A lot of people don't care for the combination at all and are happy to let the period of bad weather pass. But in reality, summer is not over, the danger of coming to the end of life as a result of a thunderstorm is relatively slight providing sensible precautions are taken.

It is considered an unnecessary risk, for example, to engage in any outdoor sport which necessarily involves being struck by lightning or a storm. Water seems to attract lightning and any object on or in the water is like a mountain on a desert . . . It stands out and lightning is reputed to strike the highest point in the vicinity.

As far as possible, for anyone caught on land during a storm. Seek out the low points and lay low, is the advice of experts. Avoid trees, animals and other such things which are prominent on the landscape.

Indoors there are also certain simple precautions which, when followed, provide relatively good first-stationary chances of becoming a victim of lightning. These would include such things as avoiding an open doorway or window, abstaining from using electrical appliances, keeping television to a minimum during the peak, and so on.

There are also other things which might be indirectly linked with an electrical discharge such as would be given by lightning.

Stural living may have some disadvantages from the standpoint of electricity and the safety of hydro lines, rising costs of farm arable today has reduced this considerably. These lines and poles tend to bear the brunt of violent lightning just as they do in the more settled areas. Lightning rods also contribute to the safety of farm buildings.

There is no way to ensure optimum safety during a thundershower but generally speaking only reasonable precautions are all that are necessary. In other words, don't trouble and it is less liable to come. Those who are nervous about a lightning storm might gain considerable comfort by recognizing they have already survived a good many of them.

STARLING TROUBLE

The starling has always been a much-maligned bird in these parts of the country but for all this, there have been those who defended it in the face of evidence supporting claims of its destructive activities. Even the lowly starling has had its day.

Now, however, the starling has been shot at, fed poison bait, attacked with water hoses and shelled off their perches. In Europe and North Africa contact poisons are sprayed on the birds by crews wearing protective suits.

"Fortunately the starling meance has not requested such treatment in this country but E. L. Eastman, senior homoeopath, Kemptville has no hesitation in branding it as the most hated bird in his province. Flocks of hundreds and some of thousands of starlings were seen last summer and they are expected back soon. While the very young birds are satisfied with insects they soon grow to like beetles and other small insects.

Careers are advised that all scaring devices must be backed up by some gunfire, to be effective. The starlings seem to like living near humans but they quarrel among themselves and drive off other feathered visitors, especially the flickers and other distances. In Britain, frequent outbreaks of frost and mouth disease were blamed on the starling which was said to be a carrier of the disease. In this country it is thought they may have spread Bangs and other animal diseases."

THEM STILL TAKE A CHANCE

The presence of parking meters along Lindsay's downtown streets and the possibility that a policeman might come along at any moment, has caused a stop to thefts from parked motor cars. As recently as last week a quantity of groceries and other items were reported stolen from an out-of-town car which was parked right on the main street.

It's nice to be trusting but it's often less interesting to take the precaution of locking the car door before leaving it for any length of time.

SEARCH FOR PIONEER HOMES

Local historical societies and those of our readers who take an interest in Canadians, will be pleased to hear that something is to be done to foster a greater interest in early Canadian history.

The president of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association wishes to locate some of the better examples of the houses, churches and other buildings our forefathers built, and would like to hear from anyone now owning them or who know of any in their district. They are planning a photographic exhibit of these houses to be shown in towns and cities across Canada.

The object, of course, is to point up the important role the lumber industry played in Canadian life from the earliest days. This is a matter of great importance; a colour幻影 can only increase the awareness of Canadians everywhere to our real link with the past. Without such efforts as this, many of our fine old homes will gradually die of neglect. An exhibit such as this may serve to keep many Canadians to preserve what little is left of our heritage.

If any reader knows of a pioneer home, church or other building that is in good condition, they are invited to contact the White Pine Bureau, Canadian Lumbermen's Association, 27 Gouletburn Ave., Ottawa, Ontario.

THOSE "UNUSUAL" PRICE INCREASES

In the latest issue of "Industry," organ of The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, reference is made to the changes which began to be heard within a few days of the reading of the budget. The price increases were primarily imposed by some manufacturers in the light of the budget provisions.

"As usual," the CMA organ says, "there was no great eagerness to name names, and examples of increases that could be laid directly to the manufacturer were not exactly plentiful. It was, in fact, the broad, all-embracing nature which hasn't very many associations in the minds of most people these days."

It was perhaps unfortunate that the head of the government failed to point it out to the fact that complaints of price increases had been made to Ottawa. This, of course, did nothing to lessen the effects of the charges.

One can imagine that there were one or two manufacturers who saw in the budget an opportunity for getting a little featherbedding. No group of individuals or companies is without its "chiseller" and its money-grabbers. It is, however, a short-sighted policy which seldom works out, in the long run, to the advantage of the manufacturer.

It is possible to be "industry" - this charge of unjustifiable price increases credits neither the manufacturer nor the consumer with much intelligence.

The consumer, after all, has the final say in the matter of price levels. Except for the necessities of life and the price of these it is the consumer who decides what he wants to pay. Today he or she can always refrain from buying if there is any suggestion of profiteering. No one is more aware of this economic fact than the intelligent manufacturer; and a manufacturer who is not intelligent can hardly hope to stay in business very long in these days of keen competition.

Contrary to the beliefs held in many quarters, any manufacturer who is worth his salt is far more interested in keeping prices as low as possible than in obtaining an unreasonably high mark-up for his products. Virtue is his prime concern and, of course, the lower the price the greater the demand.

FACTS for FARMERS

Some news of special interest to our farm subscribers

YELLOW GOAT'S-BEARD

Yellow Goat's-Beard is a native of Europe which invades all across Canada. It is a common weed on roadsides, railway rights-of-way, in pastures and parts of our parks. Luckily, it does not persist in cultivated fields.

Goat's-Beard is a perennial with a long tap root. The stem is very erect and grows from 3 to 3 feet high. The leaves are deeply lobed and drooping clusters of narrow heads which look like hairy dandelions. The flowers are yellowish, appearing in the afternoon and night, hence the popular name. The flowers have a strong, slightly aromatic smell and they are easily identified.

Goat's-Beard will put off flowering until the weeds have flowered, reports the Field Crop Branch, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture.

At this time, the harm from weed competition has resulted, and spray control is the best method of control, as it will not help the crop yield. It also takes more chemicals to control than other weeds.

It is recommended that the use of 2-D will help control Goat's-Beard.

Goat's-Beard is easily destroyed by cutting.

The Field Crop Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture advises that the top growth of Yellow Goat's-Beard is easily destroyed by cutting.

These weeds are 2-4 ft. with kill most pasture clovers, and some were used on where no other grass was growing.

Where Goat's-Beard invades a pasture, it has field high in clover, moving the hay over to another field. This is the reason the weeds are spread by the wind further infestations are likely unless it is controlled in the whole district. (Farm News)

50 Deaths Recorded In Last 50 Years

The 50th deaths in 10 years was charged today against Indianapolis, Indiana, as the nation's leading motor death rate in the most disastrous practice period since 1910.

Rooko Bus Corner, 12 of Redlands, Calif., died of severe head injuries in the second most fatal accident or homicide in the 50-mile road.

Jerry Lusk Larson, 21, was injured in a truck practice run May 2.

There were 100 deaths in weeks May 1 when officials began testing newcomers and veterans started their annual practice for the Motor Corps.

A 10-year veteran of mid-gear car racing, but not the race, was killed in a collision with his driver's test only Monday. After passing the final 100-mile-unit-hour practice run he permitted to drive at his local track.

He whored his new Coup Special into the northeast, then a crosswind took him into the rear of a car. The car spun into the infidel and whipped back across the track to crash, killing the racing world almost bare.

Childs are always problems? If they are badly behaved, then the parents are too. But if they are good, parents worry about them. A stepped-up campaign to keep children in the field is available free of charge from local or provincial departments under the title Child Training series.
